

Harlan County High School junior Kymberlyn Wilson recently participated in the Appalachian Regional Commission's Oak Ridge National Laboratory 2011 Summer Math-Science Institute for high school students and teachers.

As a result of her participation, she recently attended the Governor's Appalachian Regional Commissioner meeting to share her experience. She told of the two-week residential hands-on learning institute which focused on math, science and technology.

She is the daughter of Steve Wilson of Loyalll. Her plans are to become a pediatrician.
