

NHS Induction

In a ceremony marked by the traditional lighting of candles, the Harlan County High School Chapter of the National Honor Society inducted 87 new members. "The inductees tonight are a special group, recognized for their academic achievement and attention to community service, leadership, character and scholarship." said Anna Carruba, sponsor of the chapter.

To be considered for membership, students must achieve a weighted grade point average (GPA) of 3.5 or above, a standard that is higher than the standard set nationally. This is an elite group of scholars and role models.
