

The second grade students in Mrs. Brittany Helton's class at Wallins Elementary School had an exciting hands-on science lesson today. They made volcanoes and studied chemical reactions to make their projects erupt. The students' excitement was obvious by their facial reactions.

