

Black Mountain students participated in a yearlong STEM rotation offered through the Kentucky Valley Educational Cooperative. During this rotation students were able to use different types of rolling and flying drones.

